The San Francisco 49ers begin their 25th season of operation this year well recognized as one of the truly pioneer professional sports organizations in the area.

When Anthony J. "Tony" Morabito, the club's founder, watched the first 49er team take the field in 1946, he had set in motion the first major league professional sports operation ever to originate in the State of California.

Tony, later joined by his younger brother, Victor, survived those early days, many of them tough, struggling days, to achieve a level of success with the 49ers which enabled sports fans in Northern California, in fact, the entire state, to enjoy what has become one of the national hotbeds of professional sport.

In the beginning, the 49ers were members of the All-America Football Conference. They joined the National Football League prior to the 1950 season.

Tony Morabito passed away during the 1957 season, to be succeeded by Vic Morabito as the club's chief executive officer. Upon Vic's death, in 1964, Louis G. Spadia, then general manager, became the club's top working executive. He was named president prior to the 1967 season.

The San Francisco 49ers are a limited partnership with the major interest being held by Mrs. Josephine Morabito and Mrs. Victor Morabito.

FORTY NINER PROSPECTUS — 1970

OFFENSE

Receivers: Gene Washington established himself as one of the game's best young receivers last year with 51 catches, 711 yards and three TDs. He finished tied for 10th in the league and played in the Pro Bowl, but, indicative of San Francisco's aerial variety, running back Doug Cunningham also caught 51. Tight end Bob Windsor, under pressure from rookie Ted Kwalick, responded with a strong, 49-catch season last year, and the battle between those two this year should be a good one. Determined Dick Witcher was the other wide receiver and the tough five-year vet caught 33 passes, three for TDs. Again, however, the passing versatility showed with running back Ken Willard's 36 catches.

John Brodie

Line: This rebuilt unit did a fine job last year, particularly in the latter half of the season. Forrest Blue, at center, is probably the finest young player at that position, could be an All-Pro candidate early in his career. Guard Elmer Collett played in the Pro Bowl last year after his 3rd season, and the other guard was 3rd-year man Woody Peoples, who did a good job. Tackle Cas Banaszek, bigger and wiser in his 3rd season, proved more and more impressive, while the "old man" of the group, Len Rohde, showed again in his 10th season that he is one of the best playing. Depth is needed, however, and guard Randy Beisler and big, quick Kevin Hardy, moved over from defense, could provide it.

DEFENSE

Line: Two factors could make this a deep, tough and effective front four. First, the recovery of end Stan Hindman from knee surgery. He was coming into his own as one of the real good ones when cut down last year. Second, if No. 1 choice Cedrick Hardman, of North Texas State, is for real, there could be a new defensive star in the game. The proven excellence of the great Charlie Krueger, at tackle, and the reliable Roland Lakes at the other tackle, the work of Bill Belk, at end, and the outstanding rookie performance turned in by Earl Edwards at both end and tackle, already have established the group's quality credentials.

Backers: The group which finished as starters last season may be the youngest, experience wise, around. Dave Wilcox, powerful outside backer, is coming up on only his 7th season, middleman Frank Nunley will be in his 4th, and right side man Skip Vanderbundt will start his second. Wilcox is established among the best, but Nunley came along last year after regular Ed Beard fell to a knee injury, and Vanderbundt won the job opened by the retirement of Matt Hazeltine. Beard is fully recovered and back to challenge Nunley for the job.

Secondary: With the trade of Kermit Alexander to the Rams, there is a cornerback job open. Vet Mel Phillips, who has been a safety, and the No. 2 man chosen in the draft, Bruce Taylor, are the top candidates. Jimmy Johnson, All-Pro last year, will be at his usual left cornerback post, vets Al Randolph and Johnny Fuller will battle for the strong safety spot, while Rosey Taylor and Johnny Woiti are the veterans involved in the battle for the free safety spot.

Kicking: Repairs have been made to the entire kicking game. Jon Kilgore, picked up as a free agent last year, wound up 8th among the league's punters. Place kicking, beset by Tommy Davis' injuries and Momicilo Gavric's inexperience, goes now to dependable Bruce Gossett, gained in a trade which sent Kermit Alexander to Los Angeles. Gossett was the NFL's 3rd-leading scorer last year with 36 extra points and 22 FGs.

JACK WHITE

General Manager

One of the most well-known and widely-respected sports administrators in the business, Jack White is beginning his fourth year as general manager for the 49ers.

White's appointment was made just prior to the 1967 season when Lou Spadia became club president.

White, who had been a parttime talent scout for the club for some 14 years, became a fulltime 49er in 1965, when he became director of scouting, a key position in the talent hunting area.

White's experience in professional sport has covered both baseball and football. He was a pro football player, and, later, an assistant coach with the old New York Yankee football team in the All-American Conference.

Still later, he joined the New York Yankee baseball organization and served in capacities which ranged from general manager of their Richmond farm club, to business and ticket manager for the parent club.

White and his family, wife Mary and children Susan and John, now live in Palo Alto.

LYNN O. WALDORF

Director of Personnel

A former president of the American Football Coaches Association and one of the most respected men in sports, Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf joined the 49er organization in 1957. Since then, he has built up a talent-scouting force second to none. His efforts have been responsible for many new faces on the San Francisco roster in the past years and the current crop of newcomers is rated among the finest in the club's history.

A tackle at Syracuse University in the early 1920's, he coached at Oklahoma City, Oklahoma State, Kansas State and Northwestern before taking over what he termed the "Sleeping Giant" at the University of California in 1947. Under his tutelage, the Golden Bears won three consecutive Pacific Coast Conference titles—1948-49-50—and represented the West in the annual Rose Bowl classic at Pasadena. His 10-year record at California was 66 wins, 32 losses and four ties.

Pappy was elected to the National Foundation Football Hall of Fame in 1965, one of the few coaches to achieve that honor.

One of the nation's top after-dinner speakers, Pappy is especially noted for his limitless supply of limericks. He and his wife, Louise, live in Berkeley. They have two daughters and five grandchildren.

THE 49ER STORY — 1946-1969

From a modest beginning in 1946, the San Francisco 49ers have grown into one of the most flourishing franchises in professional sports.

A major league football franchise in the City by the Golden Gate had long been the cherished dream of Anthony J. (Tony) Morabito, a native son and 1931 graduate of the University of Santa Clara. Failing to win recognition from the National League, Tony turned to the All-America Conference, which began operations in 1946 with the late Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, as the guiding genius.

Although the AAC went under after four years of intense competition with the NFL, it proved Morabito's point that San Francisco was a major league city. Sports fans of the entire Bay Area took the 49ers to their hearts and attendance grew by the proverbial leaps and bounds.

The club's success was predicated on Tony's oft-repeated slogan of "Go first class or not at all," and his early organization was built around such honored names as Lawrence T. (Buck) Shaw, head coach; and Frankie Albert, Norm Standlee, Alyn Beals, Johnny Strzykalski and Len Eshmont—all of whom were already top drawing cards in collegiate and pro football.

The 49ers were the perennial runners-up to the mighty Cleveland Browns throughout the history of the AAC and, masterminded by Shaw on the bench and Albert on the field, became noted nationally for daring, colorful football. The AAC ended its short but exciting life when the Browns defeated the 49ers, 21-7, in the championship game of 1949, San Francisco, Cleveland and Baltimore became members of the NFL.

After 20 years of slam-bang battling in the NFL, the 49ers have yet to win even a divisional championship. They've come close, tying Detroit for seasonal honors in 1957 but dropping the playoff. They have made several runs at a title—and they have always been an exciting football team manned by many of the game's greatest players.

49ER STORY (Con't)

Here are the highlights, beginning with the first year in the NFL:

1950—The 49ers fell flat on their faces in their NFL debut, winning only three games. A rival coach described them as "not big enough or tough enough."

1951—In an amazing reversal of form sparked by a great rookie group, the 49ers were in the race to the final day and finished only a half game off the top. Led by Hardy Brown and his famed "shoulder tackle," the club had one of the toughest defensive units in the league. Y. A. Tittle and Billy Wilson began their great careers.

1952—After a blazing start, the 49ers slumped in midseason. It can't be written off as unsuccessful for Hugh (The King) McElhenny came off the University of Washington campus to become "Player of the Year" and the most feared runner in football.

1953—The 49ers had their best NFL showing, 9-3, normally good enough for a championship. But Detroit was 10-2. Two of the San Francisco losses came with Tittle benched because of a severe facial injury. The three defeats were by a total of nine points. Joe (Jet) Perry became one of the few players in pro history to gain more than 1,000 yards in a single season. Gordy Soltau was the league's top scorer for the second straight year.

1954—Early momentum was broken by injuries to key players such as Tittle, McElhenny, and Joe Perry. Perry gained more than 1,000 yards again, the first man ever to achieve this distinction.

1955—with McElhenny hobbled by a foot injury, the 49ers had their second worst season in history under Norman P. Strader who succeeded Shaw as head coach.

1956—in Albert's first year at the helm, the 49ers were bogged in last place at midseason with a 1-6 record. They won four and tied one of their last five games for a brilliant stretch drive.

1957—This undoubtedly was the most emotional and dramatic season in 49er history. Every game was a "Cliffhanger" and the "Alley-Oop" pass from Tittle to rookie R. C. Owens became a household byword. Emotions reached a peak when the beloved Tony Morabito collapsed and died of a heart attack at the Chicago Bears game on Oct. 27. Trailing, 17-7, the 49ers fought back for their greatest victory of all time, 21-17. The magnificent Wilson caught a pass from Tittle for the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter. Tied with Detroit at 8-4 when the season ended, the 49ers lost the playoff game, 31-27, although they held a 27-7 lead in the third quarter.

1958—an up-and-down season which finished on a high note when Green Bay and Baltimore were defeated in the last two games. The 6-6 record, however, was blackened by the 33-3 and 56-7 lacings at the hands of Los Angeles and Albert resigned at the end of the year.

1959—with Hickey in charge, the 49ers were in contention all the way and John Brodie came into his own at quarterback when he led the team to a 21-20 upset of Cleveland. J. D. Smith, converted from a defensive back, became the second 49er to accumulate more than 1,000 yards rushing.

1960—Hickey saved a seemingly hopeless season when he installed his Shotgun attack and the club captured four of the last five games to finish in a tie for second place. Third-string quarterback Bobby Waters threw the passes that upset Baltimore, 30-22, in the final two minutes.

1961—the success of Hickey's Shotgun amazed the football world, especially the 49-0 victory over Detroit. Quarterback Bill Kilmel, a passing-running rookie from UCLA, was made to order for the new offense. When the Shotgun was stopped, Brodie took over again in the T and had the finest season in 49er q.b. annals. Indicating the evenness of NFL competition, the 49ers were playing for a second-place tie, plus a trip to the Runner-up Bowl at Miami, or a fifth-place position on the last day of the season. The Colts again won by three points, but 1961 must remain as one of the most exciting and interesting years in 49er history.

1962—for the first time since 1956, the 49ers finished the frustrating season with more defeats than victories. In so doing, the honored adage of "it's easier to win at home than on the road," proved false—the 49ers won only one of seven at home, but captured five of seven road contests.

1963—injuries in multitude to key personnel started the 49ers off to a disappointing 2-12 league season. One of the victories, however, was a smashing 20-14 upset of ultimate World Champion Chicago, the only league defeat suffered by the Bears all season.

1964—Club co-founder Victor P. Morabito died of a heart attack in May. Injury to key personnel prevented the 49ers from gaining enough offensive momentum to forge a winning season, although they proved to be one of the toughest defensive clubs in the league. Outstanding rookie performances by end Dave Parks, quarterback George Mira and linebacker Dave Wilcox also took some of the sting from the 4-10 overall record.

1965—Outstanding offensive performances enabled the 49ers to jump from the bottom to fourth place in the Western Division as the team led the NFL in both scoring and total offense. John Brodie was the most productive passer in the NFL, Dave Parks led the league in receiving and rookie Ken Willard and veteran John David Crow, acquired in an off-season trade, led a strong ground game. The over-all record was 7-6-1 and the season-opening 52-24 beating of the Chicago Bears marked the largest number of points ever scored by the 49ers in NFL play.

1966—After a somewhat slow start, the 49ers got in gear just before midway in the season and became one of only two teams to beat the eventual World Champion Green Bay Packers. After that, they rolled to a respectable 6-6-2 record and were in the battle for second place in the Western Division until the final league game. Guard John Thomas and end Dave Parks were All Pro, and they joined guard Howard Mudd, center Bruce Bosley, fullback Ken Willard and linebacker Dave Wilcox in the Pro Bowl.

1967—An auspicious start (they were 5-1) disintegrated into disappointment for the 49ers as injuries took a heavy toll and a six-game losing streak took them out of the running. Quarterback George Mira came off the bench to lead the squad to two season-ending victories and salvage a 7-7 record. There were bright spots, however, as, with John Brodie in fine form, the 49ers were the only team to beat the power-laden Rams in a league game, guard Howard Mudd and linebacker Dave Wilcox were named to All-Pro teams, and Mudd and center Bruce Bosley played in the Pro Bowl for the second straight time.

1968—Under new coach Dick Nolan the 49ers posted a 7-6-1 record as the season turned on key wins over New York, 26-10, and Green Bay, 27-20. Brilliant performances by QB John Brodie, receiver Clif McNeil and running back Ken Willard led a prolific offense, while tackle Charlie Krueger, linebacker Dave Wilcox and defensive back Kermit Alexander, sparked a revitalized defense. McNeil and guard Howard Mudd were chosen All-NFL, and joined by Wilcox, Willard and Alexander in the Pro Bowl.

1969—Beset by injuries that nearly decimated the defensive unit, the 49ers struggled through the early part of the season, went five games before beating Baltimore, the first time they had done that in 13 previous games. It got a little better after that (final record was 4-8-2) and five players—Jim Johnson, Dave Wilcox, Elmer Collett, Ken Willard and rookie Gene Washington—were selected for the Pro Bowl. Johnson was also All-Pro and winner of the Eshmont Award.
